ARTIST - PRAKASH AMBEGAONKAR

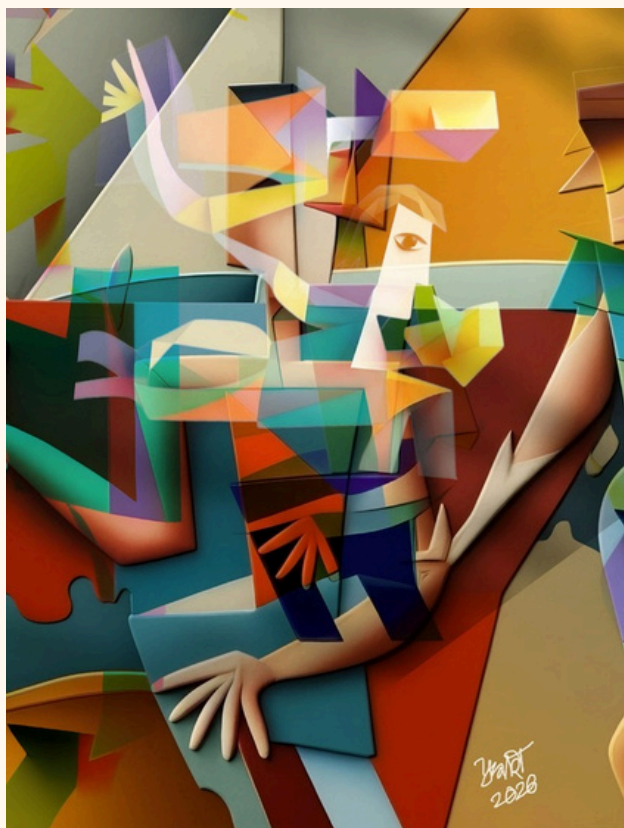

Curatorial essay

Prakash Ambegaonkar occupies a singular position in contemporary Indian art. Trained as an architect yet driven by an uncompromising artistic vision, he constructs worlds where satire, absurdity, memory, social observation, and imagination converge. His visual language resists categorisation. Echoes of surrealism, pop culture, architecture, theatre, and psychological symbolism appear throughout the works, yet none define them completely. The figures that populate these compositions seem suspended between reality and dream. Their elongated forms, fragmented identities, and theatrical gestures reveal both the humour and fragility of the human condition. Ambegaonkar invites viewers to look beyond appearances and engage with deeper narratives about society, aspiration, power, alienation, and resilience. Presented in Romartika's 3D Simulated Interactive Gallery, this exhibition offers an immersive encounter with a body of work that is simultaneously playful and profound.
